

Iztok Osojnik was born 1951 in Ljubljana. In his hometown he graduated comparative literature, and earned his MA in Osaka. He was director of literature festival in Vilenica.

He has published 18 books of poetry, on paper and CD, recently a novel, Story about Mr. Pirjevec and me (s.a.), poetry collections, July Darkness (2002), Once Upon Time There was America (2003), From the New World (2003), Mr. Today (2004) and a book of essays, Mona Lisa Smile (2004).

He translates poetry from Chinese, English, Spanish and Croatian, and his poems were translated on all major and some minor languages (Hungarian, Hebrew, Macedonian, Malayan, Livonian). He has published three books of poetry in English: Alluminations (City Gallery of Arts of Ljubljana), And Some Things Happen for the First Time (Modry Peter, Canada 2001) i Mister Today (Jacaranda Press, California 2003) and two chapbooks.